The California Regional Center system was developed by the state legislature to operationalize its stated policy of assuming its responsibility for its citizens with developmental disabilities.

Before the passage of the Lanterman Developmental Services Act (Welfare and institutions Code, Division 4.5), which created the Regional Center System, the state assumed responsibility for a person with a developmental disability at the time that person is diagnosed as needing support to achieve the highest level of functioning as possible.

There are 21 Regional Centers in California, seven of which serve Los Angeles County. Each Regional Center serves a specific geographic area. South Central Los Angeles Regional Center (SCLARC) serves five health districts, including Compton, San Antonio, South, Southeast and Southwest. This area is bounded by Washington Boulevard on the north, La Cienega Boulevard on the west, the eastern and southern boundaries of Downey, Paramount, Compton, Dominguez Hills and portions of Carson.

SCLARC is a central point in the community for people with developmental special needs and their families to obtain or be referred to necessary support services. SCLARC provides diagnostic, assessment and/or evaluations free of charge to determine eligibility to receive Regional Center services.

After eligibility for services is determined, a Service Coordinator (SC) is assigned to develop an Individual Program Plan (IPP) or Individual Family Service Plan (IFSP).

The SC coordinates the IPP/IFSP and provides ongoing supervision and monitoring of the services for a long as necessary, often throughout the lifetime of the client.

These services may be obtained from a generic service, which is a service available to the community through DPSS or the public school, or through a vendor that the Regional Center approved such as vocational training, residential services or respite care, among others. Other services offered by SCLARC which are supplementary to this basic function consist of:
Consultations. SCLARC’s Specialists provide consultations in many areas including parent training, rights of the individuals we serve, special education, health (nutrition, nursing, occupational, physical and speech therapy), mental health, behavioral health and oral health.

Community Education. SCLARC offers information to interested groups and individuals in the community-at-large on developmental disabilities and services available for individuals with developmental disabilities.

Advocacy. It is SCLARC’s responsibility to advocate for the individuals we serve and their civil and service rights.

Resource Development. SCLARC creates new programs and provides technical assistance to help improve the existing programs for the individuals we serve. This is particularly important in South Central’s catchment area because there is a critical lack of resources available for the individuals with developmental disabilities.

Outreach. SCLARC conducts continual case finding to locate eligible individuals who may be unaware of the service potentially available to them. SCLARC presently serves 18,500 clients; and it is officially estimated that there are ten times that number of people in need of our services residing in this area.

Workshops, Seminars. SCLARC sponsors many workshops and seminars for professionals, parents and the community-at-large.

For additional services that SCLARC provides, please see pages 10-12.

Email: earlystartintake@sclarc.org

Children and adults over the age of 3 can be eligible for SCLARC services if all of the following are true:

- They have a developmental disability as per California Law and Regulation.
- The condition occurred before the age of 18.
- The condition is expected to continue indefinitely.
- The condition is a substantial disability for the individual.

Substantial disability means serious limitations in three or more of the following areas of life activity: self care, expressive and receptive language, mobility, self-direction, capacity for independent living, economic.
A developmental disability is a condition attributable to:
• Intellectual Disability
• Epilepsy
• Cerebral Palsy
• Autism
• Disabling conditions found to be closely related to intellectual disability or requiring treatment similar to.

Provisional Eligibility
• For children ages 3 to 5 who would not traditionally qualify for ongoing regional center services.
• To be provisionally eligible, a child is not required to have a developmental disability.
• Child has a disability that is not only physical in nature but has serious limitations in at least two of the following areas:
  • Self-care
  • Receptive and Expressive Language
  • Learning
  • Mobility
  • Self-direction

If you have a child or loved one 3 years of age or older and you would like to make a referral or assessed for services, contact Lanterman intake at:

There are systems in place for parents, the individuals we serve and families to lodge concerns, grievances and complaints. Specifically, the individuals we serve or their authorized representatives can utilize the Complaint and Fair Hearing processes in order to make their dissatisfaction regarding ineligibility decisions and/or denial of services known to South Central Los Angeles Regional Center. Complaint and Fair Hearing processes are available to individuals and families in traditional, Self-Determination, and Early Start service delivery systems.

Welfare and Institutions Code Section 4731 provides a mechanism whereby an individual we serve, or a representative acting on behalf of the individual we serve, who believes that any right to which the individual we serve is entitled to has been abused, punitively withheld, or improperly or unreasonably denied by a regional center or service provider, may file a complaint with the regional center director. (This process is only to be used for complaints alleging that the rights for an individual we serve have been violated.)

Under the Lanterman Act, found at Welfare and Institutions Section 4500 and following, individuals we serve of, or applicants for, regional center services or their authorized representatives have the right to appeal any decision or action of the regional center with which they are dissatisfied or believe is illegal, discriminatory, etc. This right to appeal is generally referred to as the Fair Hearing appeals process. (This appeals process is generally to be used for service-related and eligibility disputes.)

An appeals information packet is routinely sent to the individual we serve or to the authorized representative of the individual we serve when the regional center proposes to take an action without the agreement of the individual we serve or their representative.

If you do not have information on how to appeal a decision, simply ask your service coordinator, his/her supervisor, or the Consumer’s Rights Advocate to send you an appeals information packet. For more information regarding fair hearings, contact:

- identifies any new trends or service delivery needs.
What is the Person Centered Thinking?

Person centered thinking is a set of approaches to plan an individual’s life and the supports needed for that person to sustain independence. Person Centered Thinking draws on the individual’s strengths and abilities to maximize achievement of outcomes. It focuses on the individual and their needs by putting them in charge of defining the direction for their life, not on the systems that may or may not be available to serve them. This ultimately leads to greater inclusion as valued members of both community and society.

Self-Determination is a new, voluntary, service delivery system in California that provides individuals and families with more flexibility than ever before. In Self-Determination, participants control a budget to purchase a wide variety of services and supports under the Lanterman Act, some of which are not available through the traditional service delivery system. As of July 1st, 2021, Self-Determination is open to most individuals served by the Regional Center who are ages 3 and older and/or have been diagnosed with a lifelong developmental disability. If you are interested in receiving information about upcoming events and trainings for the Self-Determination Program, please send an email to SelfDetermination@sclarc.org.

SCLARc also hosts monthly Self-Determination Local Advisory Committee Meetings, which are held on the second Wednesday of every month from 6:00 pm – 8:00 pm.

The Parent Advisory Committee (PAC) updates SCLARC’s Leadership Team on the activities and events of approximately 9 parent groups. To participate in PAC, parent groups should have a membership of at least 20 participants who meet monthly, every other month or quarterly. Of those parent groups that qualify they are required to select one representative and one alternate to attend the quarterly meetings to discuss community needs, program and resource development. Each parent group receives a yearly stipend in the amount of $500 to help with costs associated with guest speakers, meeting space rentals, office supplies, and printing or copying.

The Parent Advisory Committee groups meet on a quarterly basis on the 3rd Monday of the month from 10 am to 11:30 am.

The purpose of the Advocates Advisory Committee (AAC) is to help adults being served by SCLARC as well as staff and community members become more aware of the issues that affect people with developmental disabilities. The AAC is comprised of adults 18 years or older who receive services from our regional center. Members of the AAC identify topics and invite speakers to their meetings in order to address these topics. Examples of topics may include:

- How to enroll in community college and receive financial aid.
- Independent living and how to find accessible housing for persons with disabilities.
- The public transportation system and services for persons with disabilities.

The Advocates Advisory Committee meeting is held on the fourth Monday of each month from 10 am – 12 pm.
